SPECTACULAR MARATHON WON BY DENVER UNIVERSITY YOUTH

Wettingel Crosses Line Ahead of Hall of Springs Who Falls Unconscious at Finish; 20,[illegible] See Great Race

State Historical and Natural History Society

Twenty thousand people yeste[illegible]itnessed the most gruelling Marathon ever run in the wes[illegible] and saw Earl Wettingel, a Denver university student, cross the line first after a sensational run over gravel streets, asphalt pavemnets, steep roads and rocky mountain sides. Following closely on the Denver runner came Frank Hall, of the Colorado college track team, who collapsed at the finish and pitched forward unconscious as he crossed the line. Robert Finn, another Denver university youth, won third place and finished the race smiling.

The time of the first three men was respectively one hour and 10 minutes, one hour and 13 minutes and one hour and 17 minutes. Theron "Jack" Taylor, a famous athlete of the High school, lost one of the prizes by a minute, crossing the mark exhausted just after Finn.

Race Opens Shan Kive.

The race set the wheels of the Shan Kive in motion and when the runners finished along the trail, the grounds in the Garden of the Gods were thronged with people, enjoying the opening day of the big Pikes Peak region carnival.

The winner of the Marathon, Earl Wettingel, was a "dark horse," and the Denver experts who watched him run were surprised at his remarkable showing. Wettingel yesterday won his first race, although he has been a member of his alma mater's track team for two seasons. His performance is the more remarkable because he acquired a painful stone bruise after a mile of running but never complained of his injury.

Crowded Course Hampers Runners

Dust and gasoline smoke interfered greatly with the runners' breathing, and automobiles, motorcycles and bicycles hampered the progress of the contestants in spite of the presence of a large corps of special police. Steep grades and rocky mountain sides over which the racers struggled called for the maximum of endurance, but gritty and anxious, the field of runners [illegible] pushed ahead despite their [illegible].

[illegible] Wettinge [illegible] running [illegible] [illegible] over [illegible] Garwood Burkett and the memorial day event in an hour and seven minutes, two and a half minutes faster than yesterday's race.

Wettingel Makes Great Showing.

Every one of the 20,000 spectators scattered along the entire course agreed that Wettingel ran a remarkable race. Aided and encouraged by Garwood Burkett, state title halder for the distance Wettingel set his own pace and never let up an instant. Every kind of road looked the same to him and after he had taken the lead as he crossed the Huerfano street viaduct he never lost it. Hall leaped into second place as he passed the reviewing stand on Kiowa street and never lost his position. The third place was in doubt until after the runners had loped down the mountain into the gateway of the Graden of the Gods.

MARATHON STATISTICS

Winner—Earl Wettingel, Denver university. Time, 1 hour, 10 minutes.

Second—Frank Hall, Colorado college. Time, 1 hour, 13 minutes.

Third—Robert Finn, Denver university. Time, 1 hour, 17 minutes.

Number starting, 18; number finishing, 12.

Best time—One hour and 10 minutes, 2½ minutes slower than that made by Garwood Burkett in the Denver Marathon last Memorial day.

Conditions—It is estimated by experts that the Garden of the Gods course is 30 per cent harder to run than the route of the Denver race.

French Aviator Sails Upside Down in Air for Quarter of Mile

JUVISY, France, Sept. 1.—The daring French aviator, Pegoud, who, on August [illegible] an aeroplane from a height of 800 feet, accomplished a much more remarkable feat today which at first sight appears to have been a piece of extraordinary aerial acrobatics, but which experts declare was an epoch making experiment towards the attainment of safety in the air. Briefly, Pegoud caused his monoplane to describe a gigantic letter "S" in the sky, during which he was flying upside down for about a quarter of a mile.

The strictest secrecy was maintained prior to the test and only a few persons were present when Pegoud took the air. He mounted rapidly to a height of more than 3,000 feet, describing a curve.

HUNDREDS MARCH IN BIGGEST LABOR DAY PARADE EVER GIVEN IN REGION

Members of Scores of Local Unions March Through Streets and Hold Athletic Contests in Afternoon

The first big Labor day celebration in the Pikes Peak region for several years, and probably the biggest ever held in this city, occurred yesterday when organized labor of Colorado Springs took its annual day off and added to the opening events of the Shan Kive festival a monster trades parade through the business district of the city in the morning and afternoon of speaking and athletic contests at Monument Valley park.

Side by side, the American flag and the neat uniforms of marching Sons of Toil held sway in the trades unions parade which started from the corner of Nevada and Bijou street shortly after 10 a. m. Most of the marchers were in complete trade clothes, and their many-colored banners at their head presented an interesting and even spectacular appearance to the thousands of spectators who lined the streets and made special traffic rules necessary.

Thousands Watched Parade.

The line of march led from Bijou down to Platte, on Tejon, down Tejon to Cucharas and then back to Pikes Peak, Nevada, back to Tejon by way of Kiowa and then north to Platte to disband. On Tejon street only the police regulations keeping automobiles and other vehicles off the street permitted the procession to pass through the crowds that packed the street. The entire parade passed off without a hitch or accident and was easily seen by everybody.

At the head of the parade was Grand Marshal E. E. Shideler, mounted, and his aides, Police Chief Burno, Fred Russell and J. McG. Grant, rode up and down the line. A platoon of police headed the line, followed by the Midland band of 30 pieces. Next came the members of Colorado Springs local No. 4, International Bricklayers union, 25 strong, natily garbed in white overalls, shirts and caps. Following them came a score of members of the Building Laborers International Protective union, Colorado Springs local No. 3, 20 strong.

City Departments in Line.

Eight water department wagons, with Superintendent B. B. McReynolds at their head in a light rig, and three sewer department wagons, with Commissioner Frost in front, came next.

THAW HEARING WILL BE PRIVATE TODAY

Several Threats Made Against Jerome's Life; Is Being Closely Guarded

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 1.—Unless Superior Judge Matthew Hutchinson changes his mind over night, the habeas corpus proceedings tomorrow in the case of Harry K. Thaw will be held in private. Not even William Travers Jerome, chief of the New York state interests, seeking Thaw's return to Matteawan, will be allowed in the chambers. Judge Hutchinson announced his decision tonight.

He had weighed the matter carefully all day, noting, meantime the ever swelling crowd pouring into Sherbrooke for the fair. On the lips of nearly every one was a sympathic word for Thaw. Taking cognizance of this and of the outbreak of last Wednesday when Thaw was cheered in court as a hero, the judge decided that the wisest course would be to exclude spectators.

Reporters also are to be barred, according to tonight's arrangements, and while the lawyers may be present in a body if they so desire, only two representing New York are to take part in the proceedings. They are

LAW RESPECTED FOR FEAR PUBLIC OPINION

Chief Impelling Force, Says Lord Haldane in Speech Before Jurists

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—The address delivered this afternoon by the lord high chancellor of England, Viscount Haldane, formed the principal feature of the opening [illegible] of the American Bar association. Viscount Haldane held an audience which completely filled the Princess theater and which included many of the great legal lights of the Western continent and several from Europe. His theme was "Higher Nationality: A Study in Law and Ethics."

The speaker argued that the great force that actuated mankind in observing the law was not fear of the officers of justice, but fear of public opinion, and that therefore public opinion tended more than the arbitrary execution of justice to restrain men from lawbreaking. Developing this argument, Viscount Haldane proceeded to suggest that the same policy might possibly be adopted by nations and that the time had come when nations might be as much ashamed to follow the ancient methods of settling differ-

Two Cars With Crews Escape Serious Mishap; Plough Through Wreckage

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 1.—Death claimed a heavy toll in the Labor day automobile speed races at the state fair grounds this afternoon, when four of the six high-powered cars entered in the [illegible]-mile free-for-all race were wrecked on the far side of the mile track, in view of 5,000 people.

THOUSANDS THRONG GARDEN AT OPENING OF SHAN KIVE

Revelers Make Merry Along "The Trail" Where Life and Lights and Laughter Welcome King Carnival's Return

With the weird chant of a hundred Utes accompanied by the dismal beating of a dozen tom toms mingling with the loud cries of the ballyhoo proclaiming the merits of his particular attraction on The Trail, the Shan Kive opened last night at the beautiful grounds in the Garden of the Gods. Spectacular can hardly describe the scene which suddenly flashed into view on the old stamping ground of the Indians. Everywhere thousands of electric lights drove away the shadows and everywhere great crowds surged, eager to see what amusement the Shan Kive will present to them this year.

Happy Throngs Along the Trail.

Along The Trail the gay banners of the many attractions and the happy, carefree crowds, dodging confetti, ticklers, wife beaters, etc., give the carnival touch to the scene. A step further and the immense stadium of the Roman circus looms into view. Another step and one is in the heart of the Indian village and still further are the gigantic corrals and cowboy camp, and over all skyrockets, Roman candles and numerous other pieces of fireworks are showered from the high rocks and hills surrounding the grounds.

Thousands thronged the grounds last night and thousands will continue to throng them throughout the Shan Kive. In the Garden of the Gods King Carnival reigns supreme, and for these four days Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak region will cast aside business and social duties and plunge into the mad whirl of the gay festivities.

Features for Everyone.

Never before has such a Shan Kive been staged by Colorado Springs—never before has such a carnival of fun been presented in the west. There is something for everyone. The Trail for the children, the Indians for the southerner and easterner who never before have had the opportunity to view the natives of the west in their own surroundings, the cowboys and circus for all. And last of all there is the happy, carefree crowd, joking, jesting, carrying itself only as a carnival crowd can, and ready for any fun that may present itself.

Entering the grounds through an immense arch of varicolored lights, visitors to the Shan Kive last night found themselves on The Trail, the center of the carnival amusements. Flanking the lane were the many attractions the committee brought here as an added feature of the festival, and in front of each attraction a ballyhoo rent the air with his praise for the show. Somewhere a band lent its aid to increasing the din.

Carnival Spirit in the Air.

Immense crowds thronged The Trail, and everywhere was the carnival spirit in evidence. Not one but carried untold quantities of confetti, and if any escaped it was not the fault of the revellers. Confetti, ticklers, slappers—every known kind of [illegible] was in evidence in large quantities and not a few without one of them was to be lost.

[illegible] the end of The Trail [illegible] Indian village [illegible] was [illegible] squatted [illegible] village several of the [illegible] singing, if it may be called singing.

[illegible] in the evening the entire band, numbering 100, was taken to a large platform which has been erected on the grounds, where they danced their famous moon dance. The beat of tom toms, the weird chant of the dancers.

CUMMINS AFTER STOCK EXCHANGE

SHORT SELLING MENACE TO BUSINESS WORLD

Thousands Have Been Ruined in Fortune, He Says, By "Fictitious" Sales

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—"Short selling" on the New York Stock exchange, the Chicago board of trade and on cotton, produce and stock exchanges generally, was attacked by Senator Cummins in the senate today as one of the "greatest vices" of the day and as "a menace that threatens the industrial and financial strength of the country."

Supporting an amendment he had offered to the tariff bill proposing a 10 per cent tax on all trades where the seller did not actually own the property sold, Mr. Cummins, backed by several other Republican senators, delivered a vigorous criticism of stock and produce exchange operations and urged that congress do its utmost to discourage or prohibit fictitious trading which he characterized as "gambling."

The Cummins amendment was offered as a substitute for the cotton futures tax proposed by Senator Clarke of Arkansas, which would impose a tax of one tenth of one cent per pound on all trades in cotton for future delivery. Senator Cummins declared that it was more important to restrict and prohibit fictitious trading in securities and general produce than simply to regulate cotton trading.

Sales Are Fictitious.

The entire question of "futures" finally was referred back to the senate finance committee for further consideration.

Transactions on the New York Stock exchange for 1912 were cited by the Iowa senator to show the extent of the "gambling" which he declared was breaking down the moral fiber of the business community and saddling immense burdens upon the public in the way of fictitious values in stocks. The sales of stock of some railroads and industrial corporations, he declared, had been from 10 to as high as 25 times the entire stock issue of the road, while but a small proportion of stock actually had changed hands.

"Most of the sales on the New York exchange are fictitious," he said. "Thousands of men have been wrecked in fortune, and their moral fiber broken down by the methods employed. It has been the chief factor in imposing on the people a great volume of watered stock upon which they must pay dividends for years to come."

MEXICAN SITUATION IS LITTLE CHANGED

President Will Not Hasten Return to the Capital as Matter Now Stands

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Secretary Bryan remained at the state department today for news from Mexico until a few minutes before his train left for the Maryland shore where he lectured tonight. As he hastened away in his carriage he declared that nothing had been received except messages relating to the movements of American citizens in the southern republic.

Earlier in the day the secretary had conferred with Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and both stated no further suggestions had been made by Special Envoy Lind to the Huerta government and that no overtures from the Mexican side had been received.

Reports from Torreon that six Americans had been killed were not verified in the state department advices, but a bulletin was forwarded to the department from the American consul general at Monterey stating that five Americans who left Torreon last Monday had been accounted for, three of them reaching Monterey Saturday night and two remaining at Reata to dispose of their horses.

Americans Well Treated.

According to state department advices the Americans who reached Monterey reported that they were well treated by all Mexicans with whom they came in contact. They said the federals still held Torreon, while the revolutionists controlled Gomez Palacio and Lerdo.

The fate of American refugees from Mexico was the subject of routine messages between the department and American officials in Mexico and along the border. Red Cross authorities at New Orleans were notified today that Americans from Mexico arriving at that port in need of assistance should be helped to reach their homes in this country.

Owing to several misunderstandings with regard to the disposition of needy cases after Americans had reached the United States the department sent further advices to officials at coast and border towns to see to it that all who needed help were sent to their homes. Secretary Bryan had been in communication before his departure with President Wilson at Cornish, N. H., but said he did not know whether

Wettingel Crosses Line Ahead of Hall of Springs Who Falls Unconscious at Finish; 20,000 See Great Race

State Historical and Natural History Society

Twenty thousand people yesterday witnessed the most gruelling Marathon ever run in the west and saw Earl Wettingel, a Denver university student, cross the line first after a sensational run over gravel streets, asphalt pavemnets, steep roads and rocky mountain sides. Following closely on the Denver runner came Frank Hall, of the Colorado college track team, who collapsed at the finish and pitched forward unconscious as he crossed the line. Robert Finn, another Denver university youth, won third place and finished the race smiling.

The time of the first three men was respectively, one hour and 10 minutes, one hour and 13 minutes and one hour and 17 minutes. Theron "Jack" Taylor, a famous athlete of the High school, lost one of the prizes by a minute, crossing the mark exhausted just after Finn.

Race Opens Shan Kive.

The race set the wheels of the Shan Kive in motion and when the runners finished along the trail, the grounds in the Garden of the Gods were thronged with people, enjoying the opening day of the big Pikes Peak region carnival.

The winner of the Marathon, Earl Wettingel, was a "dark horse," and the Denver experts who watched him run were surprised at his remarkable showing. Wettingel yesterday won his first race, although he has been a member of his alma mater's track team for two seasons. His performance is the more remarkable because he acquired a painful stone bruise after a mile of running but never complained of his injury.

Crowded Course Hampers Runners.

Dust and gasoline smoke interferred greatly with the runners' breathing, and automobiles, motorcycles and bicycles hampered the progress of the contestants in spite of the presence of a large corps of special police. Steep grades and rocky mountain sides over which the racers struggled called for the maximum of endurance, but gritty and anxious, the field of runners gamely pushed ahead despite their [illegible].

Long distance running experts agree that the course is 30 per cent more difficult than the one in Denver, over which Garwood Burkett won the memorial day event in an hour and seven minutes, two and a half minutes faster than yesterday's race.

Wettingel Makes Great Showing.

Every one of the 20,000 spectators scattered along the entire course agreed that Wettingel ran a remarkable race. Aided and encouraged by Garwood Burkett, state title holder for the distance Wettingel set his own pace and never let up an instant. Every kind of road looked the same to him and after he had taken the lead as he crossed the Huerfano street viaduct he never lost it. Hall leaped into second place as he passed the reviewing stand on Kiowa street, and never lost his position. The third place was in doubt until after the runners had loped down the mountain into the gateway of the Graden of the Gods.

French Aviator Sails Upside Down in Air for Quarter of Mile

JUVISY, France, Sept. 1.—The daring French aviator, Pegoud, who, on August 20, made a parachute drop from an aeroplane from a height of 900 feet, accomplished a much more remarkable feat today which at first sight appears to have been a piece of extraordinary aerial acrobatics, but which experts declare was an epoch making experiment towards the attainment of safety in the air. Briefly, Pegoud caused his monoplane to describe a gigantic letter "S" in the sky, during which he was flying upside down for about a quarter of a mile.

The strictest secrecy was maintained prior to the test and only a few persons were present when Pegoud took the air. He mounted rapidly to a height of more than 3,000 feet, describing a curve.

HUNDREDS MARCH IN BIGGEST LABOR DAY PARADE EVER GIVEN IN REGION

Members of Scores of Local Unions March Through Streets and Hold Athletic Contests in Afternoon

The first big Labor day celebration in the Pikes Peak region for several years, and probably the biggest ever held in this city, occurred yesterday when organized labor of Colorado Springs took its annual day off and added to the opening events of the Shan Kive festival a monster trades parade through the business district of the city in the morning and afternoon of speaking and athletic contests at Monument Valley park.

Side by side, the American flag and the neat uniforms of marching Sons of Toil held sway in the trades unions parade which started from the corner of Nevada and Bijou street shortly after 10 a. m. Most of the marchers were in complete trade clothes, and their many-colored banners at their head presented an interesting and even spectacular appearance to the thousands of spectators who lined the streets and made special traffic rules necessary.

Thousands Watched Parade.

The line of march led from Bijou down to Platte, on Tejon down Tejon to Cucharas and then back to Pikes Peak, Nevada, back to Tejon by way of Kiowa and then north to Platte to disband. On Tejon street only the police regulations keeping automobiles and other vehicles off the street permitted the procession to pass through the crowds that packed the street. The entire parade passed off without a hitch or accident and was easily seen by everybody.

At the head of the parade was Grand Marshal E. E. Shubler, mounted, and his aides, Police Chief Burno, Fred Russell and J. Max Grant, rode up and down the line. A platoon of police headed the line, followed by the Midland band of 30 pieces. Next came the members of Colorado Springs local No. 4, International Bricklayers union, 25 strong, neatly garbed in white overalls, shirts and caps. Following them came a score of members of the Building Laborers International Protective union, Colorado Springs local No. 3, 20 strong.

City Departments in Line.

Eight water department wagons, with Superintendent E. B. McReynolds at their head in a light rig, and three sewer department wagons, with Commissioner Frost in front, came next.

THAW HEARING WILL BE PRIVATE TODAY

Several Threats Made Against Jerome's Life; Is Being Closely Guarded

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 1.—Unless Superior Judge Matthew Hutchinson changes his mind over night, the habeas corpus proceedings tomorrow in the case of Harry K. Thaw will be held in private. Not even William Travers Jerome, chief of the New York state interests seeking Thaw's return to Matteawan, will be allowed in the chambers, Judge Hutchinson announced his decision tonight.

He had decided the matter carefully all day, noting meantime the ever swelling crowd pouring into Sherbrooke for the fair. On the lips of nearly every one was a sympathetic word for Thaw. Taking cognizance of this and of the outbreak of last Wednesday when Thaw was cheered in court as a hero, the judge decided that the wisest course would be to exclude spectators.

Reporters also are to be barred, according to tonight's arrangements, and while the lawyers may be present in a body if they so desire, only two representing New York are to take part in the proceedings. There are

THOUSANDS THRONG GARDEN AT OPENING OF SHAN KIVE

Revelers Make Merry Along "The Trail" Where Life and Lights and Laughter Welcome King Carnival's Return

With the weird chant of a hundred [illegible] mingling with the dismal beating of a dozen tom toms mingling with the loud cries of the ballyhoo proclaiming the merits of each particular attraction on The Trail, the Shan Kive opened last night at the beautiful grounds in the Garden of the Gods. Spectacular can faintly describe the scene which suddenly [illegible] stamping [illegible] of the Indians. Thousands thronged the grounds last night and thousands will continue to throng them throughout the Shan Kive. In the Garden of the Gods King Carnival reigns supreme and for these four days Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak region will cast aside business and social duties and plunge into the mad whirl of the gay festivities.

Features for Everyone.

Never before has such a Shan Kive been staged by Colorado Springs, never before has such a carnival of fun been presented in the west. There is something for everyone. The Trail for the children, the Indians for the southerner and easterner who never before have had the opportunity to view the natives of the west in their own surroundings, the cowboys and circus for all. And last of all there is the happy, carefree crowd, joking, jesting, carrying itself only as a carnival crowd can, and ready for any fun that may present itself.

Entering the grounds through an immense arch of varicolored lights, visitors to the Shan Kive last night found themselves on The Trail, the center of the carnival amusements. Flanking the lane were the many attractions the committee brought here as an added feature of the festival, and in front of each attraction a ballyhoo rent the air with his praise for the [illegible] show. CUMMINS AFTER STOCK EXCHANGE

Thousands Have Been Ruined in Fortune, He Says, By "Fictitious" Sales

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—"Short selling" on the New York Stock exchange, the Chicago board of trade and on cotton, produce and stock exchanges generally, was attacked by Senator Cummins in the senate today as one of the "greatest evils" of the day and as a menace that threatens the industrial and financial strength of the country.

Supporting an amendment he had offered to the tariff bill proposing a 10 per cent tax on all trades where the seller did not actually own the property sold, Mr. Cummins, backed by several other Republican senators, delivered a vigorous criticism of stock and produce exchange operations and urged that congress [illegible] discourage or prohibit [illegible] which he characterized as gambling.

MEXICAN SITUATION IS LITTLE CHANGED

President Will Not Hasten Return to the Capital as Matter Now Stands

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Secretary Bryan remained at the state department today for news from Mexico until a few minutes before his train left for the Maryland shore, where he lectured tonight. As he hastened away in his carriage he declared that nothing had been received except messages relating to the movements of American citizens in the southern republic.

Earlier in the day the secretary had conferred with Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and both stated no formal suggestions had been made by Special Envoy Lind to the Huerta government and that no overtures from the Mexican side had been received.

Reports from Torreon that six Americans had been killed were not verified in the state department advices, but a bulletin was forwarded to the department from the American consul general at Monterey stating that the Americans who left Torreon last Monday had been accounted for except two, [illegible] Sunday night had remained at Reata to dispose of their horses.

BUCKSKIN CHARLEY RETURNS AGAIN TO THE SCENES OF HIS TRIBE'S CONQUEST

Famous Chief Stands Aloof and Gazes at 'Big Old Hill' While Braves Pitch Tepees

When the sun woke up yesterday morning he almost forgot to say "good morning" to Big Old Hill off west of town, for as soon as he'd brushed a couple of sandman clouds out of his eyes he found that his old friend Buckskin Charley, chief of all the Utes, had just arrived in Colorado Springs with his hundred tribesmen and their families for the big Shan Kive festival, and was just going into camp over in the Garden of the Gods.

In the midst of the jagged, towering crags that jut up from the Mesa and leave the Garden of the Gods a native altar at the foot of Big Old Hill, the sun watched the tribesmen pitch camp and put up their tepees. Soon smoke was curling up from the camp, and breakfast was almost ready.

Gaze Longingly at Peak.

Then it was that Buckskin Charley and his family, too proud to stoop to the menial labor of erecting tepees and cooking breakfast, moved away to one side of the camp on a little knoll that commanded a view of Big Old Hill and the pass that gores his right side. A cloud stole over the sun's face, and reminiscences of the past half century came back to Buckskin Charley as he looked at the mountains before him.

How lined old Buckskin Charley's face was as he stood there. What memories the blue-misted Rampart range before him must have been calling up. Beside and around him his family stood hushed as the old warrior gazed again at the ragged hills, and with many gestures and paintings showed the tribe the location of a desperate battleground or the spot of a treacherous ambush. Here he had led his band against the invading white man; there they had trapped a rival tribe in a ravine; beyond—and his hearers hung on his every words—was the great Ute Pass which his followers had so many times defended.

Tells Story of Early Battles.

For half an hour the old chieftain viewed again the mountains of his youth, still unchanged after 60 years, and recounted to his tribesmen, the least of their line, the exploits of the once all-powerful Utes, mighty of the mountains, now reduced to a bare handful. The last of the Utes are they, government wards, exposed to the enervating influences of the white man's civilization, dressed half in native blankets, half in the white man's clothes, a forlorn band, still clinging to an ancient custom of holding their dances on the ragged altar before Big Old Hill. Then the sun pulled another cloud over his face at the pity of it all; and when he peeped out again, Buckskin Charley and his tribe had breakfasted and were resting from their hard journey on the white man's steam cars from their reservation at Ignacio and awaiting the opening of the Shan Kive. The Indian's tragedy was to be the white man's entertainment.

ADENOIDS ARE A MENACE TO CHILDREN

Babies and young children must be carefully watched for the growth of adenoids, which spoil the mental and physical life of a child. They usually result from a succession of colds and throat irritations, and their presence is so productive of harm, that many school boards have an examining physician to detect them. The conditions that cause them may be easily avoided by careful parents. Quickly and thoroughly cure all colds and throat irritations by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and adenoids will not develop. Robinson Drug Co. Adv.

the gay dress and the peculiar movements of the dance attracted hundreds and more than one spectator gave vent to exclamations of astonishment and pleasure.

Roman Circus Attracts Many.

The big feature of the carnival, the Roman circus, gave its initial performance last night, more than 1,500 people witnessing it. The performance contains all the attractions of the big circus, including some of the most spectacular chariot races ever staged in Colorado Springs.

Early last evening crowds began to surge toward the grounds—and it was late in the night before the last one left. Everywhere there was something doing; everywhere the jolly revelers jostled one another and, above all, everywhere there was order. The grounds were well policed and it was a pleasure to roam over them.

COMEDY

Surnames are not what they seem. For instance, Lind is derived from a Teutonic word meaning a "snake." The apparently quiet and harmless surname Wren comes from a word which denotes "rapine." Fish, though such an innocent name in appearance, originally meant "impetuous."

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXPERTS TAKING SPECIAL VIEWS

A photographic studio to specialize in the taking of outdoor pictures has been established here by B. H. Nelson and Joe Milo, doing business under the firm name of Nelson and Milo. Nelson is formerly of Hot Springs, Ark. The photographers will devote most of their attention to taking pictures of parades, buildings, scenery, offices, and any and all kinds of outdoor pictures. Their headquarters will be at 323 North Pine street.

Nelson and Milo have been taking outdoor pictures in this locality for a week. They took several group pictures of the governors during the conference of the state executives. These pictures have been printed locally and in the Denver papers, and some of them have been sent east. They also took pictures at the polo games, and will take many pictures of various features of the Shan Kive this week.

They secured several good pictures of the Labor day parade yesterday morning, and some group pictures of the various unions taking part in it. They will be at the union halls with these pictures on the nights when the various unions meet.

Deaths and Funerals

Earl W. Daringer, 25 years old, died Saturday near Calhan. The body has been taken to Rushville, Ind., for interment.

The funeral of Mrs. Marie McIntyre, 45 years old, who died August 28 in Helena, Mont., was held from St. Marys church yesterday morning, and the body was buried in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Elmira Davison, widow of Daniel Davison of Monument, died yesterday morning at her home, aged 74 years. Mrs. Davison was well known among the old-timers of Monument and Colorado Springs, having come to this region in 1867. The funeral will be held from the family home in Monument this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

WOULD HAVE OFFICERS ATTEND OPERATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Attendance by naval officers at surgical clinics would be made compulsory by Surgeon General Stokes so they would not become unnerved in battle by sight of the injured. The head of the navy's medical force will address the naval war college on Wednesday on the subject in connection with a lecture on the psychology of naval warfare.

General Stokes would have the officers and men not only inured to the sight of blood and suffering but also trained in the use of first aid. In this way he believes the warships' surgeons would be enabled to attend promptly to the desperately wounded during an engagement, leaving the less seriously hurt for later treatment.

MANITOU SCRAPFEST PROVES REAL FARCE

Principal Bout Stopped by Police; Sickness Stops Two Fighters

The failure of two scrappers to put in their appearance at the Labor day boxing exhibition at Manitou, the subsequent substitution of local so-called stars, and the stopping of the main event by the referee and the police, featured last night's windup sport event for a busy day. Bob McMahon, who was to have cuffed with Jimmy Mack, failed to make an appearance, owing to a sudden attack of typhoid fever, or something like that, and "Kid" Harrison substituted. This main event proved rather a rancid exhibition, Mack having his opponent at his mercy. In the fifth round the referee, having had a tip from the police, stopped the fight. Mack floored his man four times in this round.

In the preliminaries, Mickey Donahue had the better of a fast six-round go over Jim Barry of Colorado Springs. On account of Frankie Gonzoles' failure to appear, Jim Barry was hurried to the scene. This match was full of ginger, and brought the house to its feet several times. Donahue was the aggressor throughout the six rounds, however, and seemed to land at will.

In the other two preliminaries "Kid" Brewer and the "Fighting Newsboy" of Manitou fought what might be termed a wrestling match to a draw. The Jackson boys of Colorado Springs, aged 8 and 10, also boxed four rounds. While the two principals for the main event were getting ready, McCornell and Hopper kept the audience in hysterics while they played with each other for four rounds.

Travers Picked to Retain Golf Title; Travis a Favorite

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 1.—One hundred and forty-four golfers stormed the Garden City club links today in quest of the National Amateur title. The qualifying round will reduce this field to 32, who will spend the rest of the week at match play for the championship. Weather conditions could not have been better when the first pair, M. P. Lewis of the Flushing, L. I., Country club, and A. H. Smith of the Huntington Valley club teed off, at 9:30 a. m. A haze thinly veiled the sun, and there was scarcely a breath of wind to deflect a long, high shot. The other pairs followed at five-minute intervals. Play was confined to the first half of the 36-hole qualifying round. The leading scores today will entitle their makers to finish the round tomorrow, and the total scores for the 36 holes will decide the 32 players to start the match play.

Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J., the present holder of the national title, and Walter J. Travis, another three-time national winner, and erstwhile holder of the British Amateur championship, are the most prominent among this year's entries, which include Findlay S. Douglas, Nassau, N. Y.; R. A. F. Gardner of Chicago, E. M. Byers of Allegheny, Pa., and W. C. Fownes Jr., of Pittsburg, Pa., four other former American champions.

Travers, on his general all-round play, this year is a favorite.

MEXICAN SITUATION

the president would return to Washington tomorrow.

Await New Developments.

It was the general impression that President Wilson would not hasten back unless there were indications of some immediate development in the present situation regarding negotiations between this government and the Huerta regime. An official, conversant with Mexican affairs, stated tonight that the waiting attitude of the United States was a correct one and that it would force important developments before many days, despite the intimations in the last note of Huerta's secretary of foreign affairs, Senor Gamboa, that the next move would be expected from Washington.

It was said tonight that John Lind, the American special envoy in Mexico, would remain in Vera Cruz indefinitely; that he was not contemplating any immediate move and merely was waiting for a change in the situation which it was believed would not be instigated by him nor by any move from Washington. As far as the United States is concerned, it was said the negotiations stand just where they did when President Wilson addressed congress and advised Americans to leave Mexico. Senator Bacon said today that this advice was not given with any intimation that it might mean ultimate intervention.

THAW HEARING

Samuel Jacobs of Montreal, chief Canadian counsel for the state, and Hector Verret, appearing for the Matteawan asylum from which Thaw escaped.

Those with the gambling spirit in the Dominion were wagering 2 to 1 that the writ would not be upheld. At all these predictions, Jerome smiled quizzically. "We are going to get Thaw," he said. "Maybe not tomorrow, but we'll get him."

Many letters threatening Jerome's life have been received by him since his arrival here, but he has made none of them public. Most of them were written by cranks, although one from Chicago had a particularly sinister tone. While Jerome takes such missives lightly, having received thousands at the time of the Thaw trial in New York, he is being guarded here constantly by private detectives retained by the state of New York. This afternoon a crank tried to enter his room but was steered away.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1913.

THE SHOW BEGINS

WITH the big Pioneer and Indian Parade, which starts at 10 30 this morning, Colorado Springs begins its third annual summer carnival, or Shan Kive. The enthusiasm which attended the first carnival, two years ago, has been sustained and the show itself has been steadily improved. It has been thoroughly advertised, both through the publicity bureau and by the visitors who have already seen it, and now it is known throughout Colorado and adjoining states as the best attraction of its kind in the West. This is shown by the fact that yesterday, a day before the Shan Kive had begun, nearly 1,000 people came to Colorado Springs from Denver and Pueblo to attend the festivities.

Everybody is interested in Indians; everybody likes to watch them even if they are merely walking about the streets, and it is partly for this reason that the committee in charge of the Shan Kive has made the Indian show the chief feature of the celebration. But there is another and more important reason. Less than a quarter century ago the very spot where Buckskin Charlie's band is now encamped—the Garden of the Gods—was an annual meeting place of this same band. They, and their fathers before them for centuries perhaps, had met each summer in the Garden of the Gods to hold their ceremonial dances and other religious rites. To them it was sacred ground and they attached great significance to the annual festival.

But when the Government removed the Utes to their reservation these meetings ceased and were not renewed until two years ago when the committee in charge of the summer carnival persuaded the Interior Department to send a number of the tribe here to take part in the celebration. It was their presence at that time that decided the character of the subsequent carnivals and led to the adoption of the term Shan Kive as their official designation—a Ute Indian word which means good time, or big celebration.

And that's what the Shan Kive is—a big time, three days of fun and hilarity for the people of the Pikes Peak region and their thousands of guests. It begins with a parade which will depict the pioneer life of the early days. Tomorrow will be held the unique ceremony of dedicating a monument to the victims of the last Indian massacre in this region, which occurred exactly forty-five years ago on the spot in Boulder Crescent Park where the granite boulder with its memorial tablet now stands. Thursday night comes the open air masquerade carnival on Kiowa Street, and on each day and all the time there will be Indian dances, cowboy races, bronco-bucking contests and other frontier sports at the grounds in the Garden of the Gods.

The Shan Kive is going to be well worth while not once but all the time. It is everybody's holiday. Therefore throw aside work and worry, load the family on the street car and go out to see Buckskin Charlie and his band in their old camping ground in the Garden of the Gods.

NOT A WHITE SLAVE CASE

THE Mann White Slave Act, passed by Congress two years ago, was intended to bring within reach of the law men engaged in the hideous traffic in women for immoral purposes. It provides heavy penalties of imprisonment for any one who shall be convicted of luring or forcing a woman from one state to another for prostitution. The law has been in effect only a short time, but it has already accomplished a great deal of good in checking an evil which could not be reached in any other way.

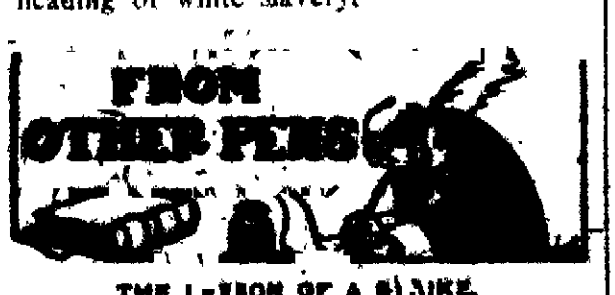
But the Diggs-Caminetti case in San Francisco, brings prominently to the fore an aspect of the measure which probably was not considered when it was drafted. In this case all four of the principals were "tarred with the same stick." The two women were not lured away against their will by money or false promises, nor were they kidnaped. They went voluntarily because it pleased them to do so and because they were neither better nor worse than the two men, and their immoral associations were only with their two companions.

These facts do not condone the offense of any of the four in the slightest degree, but they do eliminate the element of commercialism, the element of trafficking in women for immoral purposes, which is the vital point of the Mann law. For it must be kept in mind that that measure was not aimed at voluntary prostitution; it was intended solely to stop a hideous traffic in which women and young girls are the innocent victims. To apply it to such a case as that of Diggs and Caminetti is a grotesque extension of the Federal power, for it means that the men go to prison for long terms while their paramours, who are equally guilty with them, are not even prosecuted. As the Chicago Tribune puts it, these women, "having been advertised from coast to coast, will probably now go on the stage and make a great deal of money." And further:

> According to the rulings of Judge Van Fleet in this trial if a boy of 18 should pay the car fare of an immoral woman of twice his age across a state line or in the city of Washington, he would be liable to twenty years in the penitentiary for white slavery.

Twenty years, or even a lifetime, in prison, is none too severe punishment for the man who lures or forces an innocent girl into a life of shame. But when, as with Diggs and Caminetti, all of the principals stand on an equal plane, it becomes a different matter. It is a case of the pot calling the kettle black, for the men are convicted on the testimony of the women who in the same breath admit their own guilt, knowing that they are beyond reach of the law.

If the Mann act is to be stretched to punish the men in this case it should be stretched to punish the women also but better still, it ought to be amended to cover only such cases as properly come under the heading of white slavery.



THE LESSON OF A STRIKE.

From the Detroit Free Press

The collapse of the strike at Paterson, after a continuance of months, carries the customary lesson. Millions of dollars have been lost to the silk mills, the operators and the city, through the long idleness. Heavy contributions have been levied on affiliated unions in support of the strikers. Sullenly and reluctantly they have been yielding to the pressure of want and resuming work. The issue has been mislaid in the strife, and matters are much as they were, save for the ill-feeling that has been engendered.

The strike is the workman's weapon. It is a mighty force, but it is one of the forces that "kick back." There is always the recoil. It takes money out of owners' pockets, it sweeps away the workman's accumulation and leaves him poorer who was poor to begin with. Yet labor has won many things through the legitimate use of the weapon; wages have been raised, hours shortened, conditions improved but always because the strike has had the effect of making public circumstances that should be redressed. In the case of an industry in which there is a real grievance, public sympathy goes out to the strikers and the force of public opinion helps them to win. Where professional agitators foment trouble in the way of business, as happens so many times the public feels no sympathy, only regret that labor permits itself to be blinded by appeals to passion and prejudice. "Union is strength," but professional agitators make organization a club for their own purposes rather than for the good of those they profess to serve.

To a candid observer, labor seems to have established a tyranny as grievous as that of capital. The strike, rightly employed, may be a means of betterment in the hands of demagogues and unscrupulous agitators it spells destruction to labor no less than to capital.

FILTHY CHEWING GUM.

From the Pharmaceutical Era

Although the production of chewing gum is enormous, and millions of dollars are invested in the industry and the vending of the product few realize just what the components are of commercial chewing gum, and what the processes are which render the gum chicle of the tropics suitable for use.

Neither the health departments nor the druggists have investigated the manufacture of chewing gum, the former passing the neatly wrapped and sealed packages, without apparently exercising any supervision over the manufacture of the product. The druggists and confectioners as well have been content to handle the product as a quick seller, without investigation as to its cleanliness, its manufacture or the source of its principal component chicle.

As the result of a laboratory investigation of several leading brands of commercial chewing gum, carried out by the Pharmaceutical Era, it has been shown that a large amount of dirt had never been removed from the chicle, and that in the deposit in this matter in the bottom of the test tubes are included bark leaves insects dust moss, soil pollen of other tropical plants and in fact the usual accumulated material to be found in almost any tropical gum collected by the tree-slashing methods of primitive peoples.

Contrasted with these samples which were found to be "filthy vegetable substances," in agreement with the pure food decisions of the department of agriculture the investigator made similar tests with purified gum chicle produced by modern methods and by the use of special machinery. The results of these experiments prove conclusively that not only is it possible to give the consumer a pure chewing gum at the same price demanded for the dirt-laden kind but that there is no excuse whatever for the present methods of manufacture.

STRUGGLE TO OUST THE I. W. W.

From the Philadelphia Ledger

The I. W. W., on the other hand, stands for very different methods and has earned distrust because of the extreme methods which it has adopted and because of the logical tendency of its propaganda had been in the direction of anarchy and disruption. Its policy has been not to strengthen and build up but to tear down and destroy, and by violence to establish new industrial conditions in place of those which have been slowly evolved by the process of natural growth. The appearance in Philadelphia of the agents of the I. W. W. has neither advanced the true interests of the worker nor brought nearer that millennium for which the promoters of the I. W. W. profess to be laboring. Its protagonists have been so closely associated with deeds of violence that the whole movement is more or less identified in the popular mind with anarchy and destruction and its followers are won from among the most ignorant and incompetent of the communities in which the I. W. W. has operated. Therefore the older and more sanely managed labor organization is incomparably the more efficient in comparison, and will enter the contest for supremacy, with the support and encouragement of all sensible people.

CROW MONOTONOUS DIET.

From the Boston Transcript.

How the Danish explorers who were forced to eat their dogs must be envied by the politicians whose steady diet nowadays is crow.

Railroad Presidents

BY GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

The railroad president is a victim of man's cruelty who has thus far been overlooked by the S. P. C. A.

Railroad presidents are elected by railroad owners to run their railroads. They would do this happily and with no trouble at all if it were not for the populace.

The people will not let railroad presidents alone. Not content with being allowed to ride on the cars, they write him letters when the trains are late and sue him when he tries to run two trains past each other on the same track and dismembers their relatives.

"To ask the Amalgamated Employes if they would prefer rocking chairs or hammocks for their noon day siestas."

Once a railroad president was as powerful as a king, and when a city displeased him he wiped it off the timetable and let it wither away. He spent his life careering gaily over his road in a private car while the fast mail stood on a side track, and when a citizen came to him, hat in hand, to ask him if he might water a load of hogs which had been a week en route he got the cold plutocratic stare and was deposited on the sidewalk by the janitor.

All this is now changed. When a railroad president issues an order to his employes congress looks it over and tells him to forget it for about six months and nine days. When he raises his rates he is told to go lie down, and when his passenger trains run off the track the coroner's jury recommends that he be held without bail and fed on straw.

When a railroad president rides on his private car nowadays he has to take two bushels of papers along with him for an excuse. When he would play golf he has to address the farmers of Mary Jane county on the benefits of subsoil plowing and if he should refuse to do so they would murmur and complain and stocks would go down half a point when a rival line got the business.

All the railroad president has to do now is to work; and when he isn't working he is explaining things to the grand jury or an investigating committee of congress. He rises at 5, figures out how to pare off $1 45 from his expense without offending the interstate commerce commission. At 10 he asks the Amalgamated Employes if they would prefer rocking chairs or hammocks for their noon day siestas. At night he writes letters to dissatisfied customers and after he has gone to bed he gets up in the cold and apologizes over the phone to a lady in Oskaloosa because the 11:45 p m local has not yet arrived. And the next day he is fired by the directors who live in Europe, because he hasn't increased their dividends.

We would pity the railroad president if he had only taught us anything about the pity business when he was IT in 45-foot capitals.

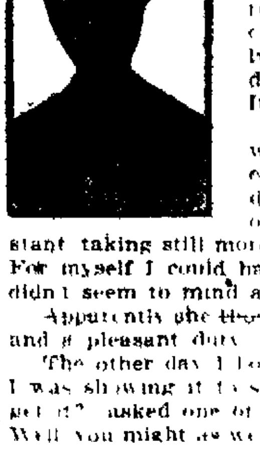
Calamity Howlers

BY RUTH CAMERON

Breaking bad news is generally supposed to be a most unpleasant job but there are some people who do not seem to find it so.

On the contrary they apparently take great pleasure in breaking all the bits of bad news they can find to the people whom they concern.

For instance a little friend of mine was asked to attend commencement this spring by a college man she much admires. It was the first attention he had paid her and she was most anxious to look her best. She has an elusive kind of prettiness which is extremely dependent on conditions and she knows it. On the great day we met her on the college campus. Her excessive anxiety to look well had defeated itself. She did not look as pretty as usual. My companion who was a relative of the girl and so entitled to a relative's privileges, eyed her critically. "Your gown is lovely," she said finally, "but why didn't you wear your other hat? It's much more becoming."



Imagine saying such a thing when you didn't have to and couldn't accomplish a thing by doing it. The sunshine went out of that girl's face in an instant taking still more of her attractiveness with it. For myself I could have cried. But my companion didn't seem to mind at all.

Apparently she thought she had performed a duty, and a pleasant duty at that.

The other day I bought a long desired rain coat. I was showing it to some friends. "Where did you get it?" asked one of them. I told her. "You did? Well you might as well have thrown your money out the window," she informed me with that cheerful resignation we keep for other people's troubles. "The one I bought there wore out in a few weeks and I know several people who had the same experience."

Needless to say my rain coat is spoiled for me. I scarcely dare wear it for fear of seeing it go to pieces.

As a neighbor of mine has a dear old mother whose sight is failing. They have a first class specialist and hope to arrest the trouble and my neighbor is trying to be optimistic about it and to think she sees some improvement. The other day I found her on the verge of tears. "Mrs. M has been in here," she explained, "and she says she thinks mother is a lot worse and several people have told her the same thing."

Another thing about these calamity howlers is that they are always most avid to break bad news to their dearest friends. Apparently they think they are showing their devotion by so doing.

They make a great mistake. Friendship and frankness should go hand in hand, but only the frankness that helps not the kind that causes needless suffering.

A true friend is one who will always tell you unpleasant truths when by so doing he can help you but will always keep unpleasant truths to himself when it won't do you any good to know them.

'CAUGHT IN THE RAIN' A SURE FIRE COMEDY

By H. H. F.

Enough sure fire comedy appears in "Caught in the Rain" to furnish a full half dozen plays with fun a plenty. Shan Kive attractions were not sufficiently alluring to prevent the usual Monday night capacity house at The Burns, and the audience enjoyed a splendid comedy, full of sprightly, witty lines and wholesome fun.

"Caught in the Rain" appeared in Colorado Springs some years ago with no less a star than that rarely funny comedian, Willie Collier in the part of Dick Crawford. Walter Richardson of The Burns company is not the same type of actor as Mr Collier, but his comedy nevertheless is genuine and funny, and there was seldom a line of "good, fat, comedy part" that is allotted to Mr. Richardson as Dick Crawford that missed being appreciated last night.

The plot of the play itself is clever, but unimportant. The situations are full of fun making possibilities which are in the main well looked after by The Burns company. Miss Jane Morgan is a winsome, lovable, Muriel Mason, a charming type of the western girl that makes a western man feel proud of his own part of this country of ours. The naturalness and attractiveness of Miss Morgan has never appeared to better advantage than in this week's play. Miss Morgan and Mr Richardson are most capably supported by the remaining Burns players. Kathryn Perry is a typical western woman of the pronounced "nouveau riche" type. Her gown is impossible, but quite what such a character might be expected to wear. Mirza Marston as Mrs Meredith is excellent and does a difficult role with never a trace of "overdoing it."

Likewise Rusell Snoad as James Maxwell, the blustering hustling westerner, does just what we know such a man would do. Earl Gardner's Mr. Mason is carefully and creditably done. Loyd Mitchell is billed as Bryce Forrester, presumptively an Englishman. He neither looks, acts or talks like one, but what can a man do if he sees no real live Englishmen to pattern after. And the typical stage Englishman is frightfully overdone, anyway. Russell Barnes, a Colorado Springs young man appears with The Burns players this week, doing a small part so well that one wishes he had more to say. Lou Sears does two small bits carefully. Richard Carlyle gives a splendid imitation of the worthless type of club lounger that is all too common in either Colorado Springs or any other city.

The play itself is a farce comedy and of course rather exaggerated in many ways. But the laughs come thick and fast, for one hardly has an opportunity to stop chuckling over one of Dick Mason's staccato epigrams, before another comes tumbling forth.

The real rain of the first act, while in itself a mere detail of the play, is characteristic of the thoroughness and completeness of the staging of all the Burns plays.

WILD WEST SHOW

NEXT SEPTEMBER 8

Arrangements have been completed for two performances of the famous Oklahoma Ranch Wild West show in this city September 8. Although a new organization, the Oklahoma Ranch show has already attracted a great deal of favorable comment. Unlike many of the old-time wild west shows, the Oklahoma Ranch exhibition does not depend upon conventional and commonplace features. The performance is credited with being strictly up to date, and while the old life on the plains is illustrated in a picturesque and often thrillingly dramatic way, especial attention is given to life on one of the great bonanza ranches of today.

There is a romance about the old days on the plains that can never be destroyed, the old frontiersmen with their long hair and deerskin dress, the trappers, the overland mail coach drivers, the wild Indians of the prairies, these all have their fascination for the student of events as well as the lover of strenuous, wholesome amusement. But after all the modern cowboy, although lacking in the generous numbers which characterized the old days is cleverer than the cowboy of 30 years ago. There are roping feats that, a few years ago would have been considered outside the range of feasibility. There are tricks of riding—daredevil exploits upon outlaw horses and reckless disregard of life and limb, that have never before been equaled. All this it is announced, is illustrated in the performance of the Oklahoma ranch wild west in a way that gives the show a distinct individuality. In other words, it is declared to be "the real thing" in wild west shows. A thrilling especially added feature of the big show is a sensational auto polo game in which four racing machines are utilized. This wonderful feature will be presented at every performance.

SCENE FROM "CAUGHT IN THE RAIN," [illegible] PLAY AT THE BURNS ALL THIS WEEK.

day—which is expected to be a joyous holiday for the local public—will be preceded at 10:30 in the morning by what is described as one of the most picturesque street displays ever seen in this city. The parade is over a mile in length. Hundreds of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Mexicans, Cossacks and other interesting people will be in line. The array of great floats and tableaux cars is also said to be remarkably effective, while nearly a dozen different kinds of music enliven the display.

CAUGHT IN THE RAIN

The Burns players at the Burns theater are presenting William Collier's notable farce, "Caught in the Rain" all of this week. This is one of the funniest farces in which Mr Collier ever appeared. Its clean wholesome humor being especially appealing. The scenes of the three acts of "Caught in the Rain" are laid in and about Helena, Mont at the present day. With all its witty lines and funny situations the heart interest of this farce is by no means neglected. There are no less than three young couples on matrimony bent in the course of the play. Chief in interest are Dick Crawford and Muriel Mason. Under an awning in a very realistic rainstorm Crawford meets Muriel and falls desperately in love with her, but it is not until the very end of the play that he wins her hand.

As Dick Crawford, the bashful young mine-owning hero of the play, Mr Richardson, the stock company's leading man, will have ample opportunity to show his [illegible] comedian. [illegible] will be seen to excellent [illegible] as Muriel Mason.

U. S. RENEWS FIGHT TO COLLECT TAXES

Claims $4,833 From Stratton Estate Due for Stamps Under War Levy

Government attorneys in Denver are again active in an effort to collect $4,883 from the estate of the late Winfield Scott Stratton, mining millionaire, alleged to be due as a stamp tax, under the war levy of 1898, on the sale of the Stratton mine to George Butcher and the Venture corporation of London. The executors refuse to pay.

A statement of facts and arguments why the government should be paid has been filed in the United States district court by Henry E. Lutz, assistant United States district attorney. It gives in detail the various negotiations and the transaction which finally brought about the sale of the Stratton mine.

It shows that Verner Z. Reed at first negotiated with Stratton with the purpose of turning over the mine to a corporation, but that the contracts were later withdrawn and finally the agreement was made with George Butcher of London, representing the Venture corporation. Stratton, it is shown, deeded the mining property to the Stratton Independence, Limited, and the corporation in turn gave him all the stock. The stock was put on the market and the government says that Stratton received $9,833,000 and not $4,850,000, the recited consideration.

Claim Tax Insufficient.

It is asserted in the government's argument that Stratton paid a stamp tax of $4,850 on the nominal or arbitrary valuation of the stock, while as a matter of fact the transfers back and forth of mine and stock were for the purpose of making the consideration to Stratton approximately $10,000,000. Several millions passed as commissions in the deal and the stock, it is said, brought upwards of $15,000,000.

The government brought suit against the Stratton trustees for $4,883 in 1905, and it took eight years to establish the right to maintain the action. The transfer deeds had $4,850 worth of stamps on them, but the revenue department said that $9,883 was due. Judge Moses Hallett sustained a demurrer filed by the executor's attorneys and the United States court of appeals affirmed that ruling. The supreme court of the United States said both the lower courts were wrong, and now, after eight years of delay, the case is again to be threshed out.

Next came the members of Colorado Springs local No. 515, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, who, 200 strong, garbed in blue shirts and white caps, and the leaders carrying their banner flanked by two huge American flags, made the finest showing in the parade.

Behind them was a beautiful automobile float of the W. C. T. U., decorated entirely in white, followed by Colorado City local No. 417 of the carpenters organization, the 30 members being dressed in green trousers, white shirts and black caps. The decorated auto of the Labor News with a banner reading, "The Labor News, devoted to the interests of organized labor and home industry," followed, and behind it were nine delegates from New Orleans to the convention next week in Salt Lake of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, Division No. 194, who are stopping here for a couple of days on their way west.

Marchers Make Fine Showing.

Next marched 55 members of Colorado Springs local No. 58, United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Fitters, attired in dark trousers, white shirts and white hats, and behind them were 40 members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, Colorado Springs local No. 171, who were dressed all in white and looked spick and span. Members of the Amalgamated Sheet and Metal Workers International Alliance, Colorado Springs local No. 107, were next, carrying metal parasols, which, as they marched, gleamed brightly in the sunlight.

Fifty members of the Journeymen Barbers International union of America, Colorado Springs local No. 42, came next, followed by Pikes Peak local No. 1662, United Mine Workers of America, 110 strong, and behind them a dozen members of local No. 150, Journeymen Tailors union of America. Two autos of the Dern Tea & Coffee company and an immense, beautifully decorated float of the Out West Tent & Awning company brought up the rear. This float had a revolving turret inscribed "United We Stand," and on it young women sitting at sewing machines.

Addresses by Labor Leaders.

The afternoon exercises at Monument Valley park opened at 1:30 o'clock with an address of welcome to visiting union men by Mayor C. L. McKesson. THE WHITAKER-KESTER SHOE COMPANY QUITTING BUSINESS

Sale Resumed Today At 8 a. m.--No. 10 North Tejon Street--A Scene of Activity

Such excitement as the new prices at the Whitaker-Kester Shoe Company Quitting Business Sale caused last Friday and Saturday, was never before witnessed in Colorado Springs. Talking of honesty in advertising—it is an established fact that you can't fool all the people all the time, and that they know a good thing when they see it. The Whitaker-Kester Shoe Company has always catered to the very best patronage, buying only from manufacturers of established reputation and buying their best products only. And so the people know that when the Whitaker-Kester Shoe Company say they are selling $4 and $5 Shoes for $1.85, the statement can be relied upon. But the Whitaker-Kester Shoe Company, while selling their stock, are not selling their reputation and thus they make it clearly understood that the very latest in Footwear is not offered at such ridiculous reductions, but that odds and ends and broken lines are gathered for the purpose. But the later arrivals, more complete lines, are also being sold at 10 per cent to 25 per cent less than former prices, profits being entirely ignored and losses being accepted with good grace. The Sale is to be resumed this morning at 8 and those who need Footwear and those who do not need Footwear will find it advantageous to buy now even for seasons ahead.

ALL PREFER COLORADO SPRINGS TO CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles and its surrounding territory is not to be compared with Colorado Springs as a place of residence in the opinion of Frank H. Dunnington and numerous other Springs people who within the last few years have removed to Southern California. In a letter to a friend here, Dunnington says:

"I am certainly homesick and I think I have good cause to be. I find almost everyone else out here from Colorado Springs in about the same fix. I have talked to only two former residents of Colorado Springs who did not want to be back. It seems that taking everything into consideration, Colorado Springs is the best place in the United States to live the year round."

Splendid Success Attends Young Thespians' Efforts

The matinee and night performances of "Much Ado," the second of the fetes which have been given at the Grand Opera house for the benefit of the Childrens ward maintained out at Beth-El hospital by the Visiting Nurses' association, yesterday drew each its full quota of patronage in spite of several rival attractions elsewhere

Even prettier than "The Little Princess" "Much Ado" swung smoothly through its revel and riot of dances, songs and witty dialogue, with applause greeting each number from start to finish The scenes of "Much Ado" are laid in a beautiful garden where Titania's little sprites and fairies are enjoying their moonlight revels A strange unnatural object is discovered in the sky approaching earth. Titania stops the mirth and all await its coming

There is a hush of expectancy a rustle and a whirr and then the beautiful aeroplane outlined in tiny electric lights, apparently shoots from the sky right into the midst of Titania's garden It carries the Men from Mars dressed as aborigines in handsome skins of wild animals.

Their entrance to the stirring "El Capitan" their gallant captain with a scroll of every man's name" as he called the roll and finally the winning of his fair Titania, ere he returns to Mars,—all the scenes were admirably acted The final scene was a thing of beauty truly a picture from out of Fairyland The fair Titania poised in the aeroplane directly over the heads of the bevy of beautiful Earth Maidens all singing their rose-trimmed gowns swaying to the rythm of "Good-bye Everybody" the Men from Mars with drawn swords at attention—all formed a tableaux of wondrous dramatic appeal

Miss Arnold received fresh tributes as Titania, her sprightliness and utter abandon to the lightness and airiness of the party being thoroughly delightful. If possible, she appeared more beautiful, more charmingly graceful and at ease, than before Miss Marguerite Couture, the bright particular star of the many beautiful dancers, received a tremendous ovation and responded with a winning manner and charming grace. Dancing is assuredly her forte and she gives promise of a brilliant future

In a very pretty song little Miss Fanchion Crow showed admirable poise for one so young She is pretty and very graceful, dainty and possessed of a remarkably sweet, clear voice The Humoreske as on Saturday was one of the most captivating numbers of the entire performance It was most cleverly done by the Misses Helen Hoon and Bernice Hosman and Messrs. Donald Graham and Meldon Johnson The young girls were as pretty as pictures in their fluffy ballet costumes, and their evident joy in the dance added not a little to its attractiveness

Little Miss Leslie Davis, understudy for Miss Eunice Caseley, in the role of Ariel compelled to take the part because of the illness of the real Ariel was from the first a favorite with the audience with Master Richard Roby, a talented mite of a boy who is as much at home on the stage as playing in his own yard, a close second in the race for favor The darling of the company, tiny baby Dorothy Brassfield was the delight of the audience and all unconscious kept them laughing constantly at the cunning naivette of her earnest efforts

A Splendid Success.

Nothing but pleasure and happiness was evident on the faces of the little participants In fact they really seemed to be really out in a lovely wood enjoying a holiday frolic To Miss Bogardus their director they gave a ringing cheer after the fall of the final curtain last night and many of the exquisite flowers sent up over the footlights in profusion bore her name One tiny little player voiced the sentiment of the whole gay young company when she exclaimed. Let's have a fete every day I don't want it to be all over "

In gratifying addition to the wonderful artistic success of the fetes is the box office statement that the receipts give promise of nearing $1,000 a splendid showing for a late summer attraction in Colorado Springs And when one considers the beneficiary of the fetes one is doubly glad that they were so successful financially

Coal Men Announce Increase in Prices

A coal rate war which has been in progress for more than a year, has been ended, and yesterday local dealers advanced prices on all classes of coal. Signs already are appearing in the coal offices stating the advance The increase in prices, it was said last night, has been expected for some time by those familiar with fuel conditions here.

Lignite mine run for blocks and steam use has been advanced to $2 50 a ton. Lignite lump for domestic use has gone to $4 a ton, and bituminous nut has gone to $5 50 and lump to $6.

It is a well established fact, it was said last night, that a great deal of money has been lost by producers and dealers alike since the rate war went into effect. One producer said.

"Colorado Springs is fortunate in having at its door large coal deposits which would mean a great industry for this locality if they were developed, but it was unfortunate in having had this rate war. The war has already resulted in closing some of the mines, throwing many men out of employment, and driving many of the dealers out of the coal business."

THE LARGE ARMHOLE, AND DROP-SHOULDER LINE TO BE PAVING THE WAY FOR THE RETURN OF THE KIMONO SLEEVE

Lower and lower drops the shoulder line of the new frocks and blouses perhaps because most women have always cherished a liking for the kimono type of sleeve and are getting just as close to it as possible Many elaborate evening gowns of the past season were frankly kimono as to sleeves but the idea was not worked into the practical frocks to any extent The drop-shoulder as in 7645 was adopted as a sort of compromise In this dress it gives quite a pretty shoulder line and the sleeve may be joined with a plain seam or under a tuck as preferred The closing is at the side-front of the waist, carried over to the side of the skirt The tiny square collar and revers should be of some contrasting material and the shops are full of suggestions for this It has surely been a season of contrasts, some good, some atrocious but now that we are becoming accustomed to handling these contrasts, the mistakes are rarer and not so glaring The frock we are discussing is a good model for all-day wear in white or tomato red linen or ratine with trimming of some post-impressionist printed stuff in dull colors Five sizes, 34 to 42 and the 36 inch size requires five yards 36-inch material 15 cents

Slowly but surely plaits are coming to the front in the best models To be sure they are always worked out in the softest of fabrics so that they give very little extra fullness as in the original of 7948 which was of sheer voile of chiffony softness

The frock was in the new overblouse effect that seems to be gaining in favor and the overblouse is made with quite a large armhole emphasizing the looseness of present-day blouses There is a guimpe in peasant shaping that fastens at the back and for this some of the dainty lace nets or point d'esprit may be used To the overblouse the tunic with group of plaits front and back is joined and the pattern provides a foundation skirt, so that if you decide to make over blouse and tunic of some transparent fabric you have a foundation dress to develop in satin that forms a lining The girdle is very pretty with its large butterfly bow at the back No pattern is given for this Three sizes for misses of 16 17 and 18 and 18 year girl will need four yards 36 inch material for foundation dress and four yards 42-inch for over blouse and tunic. 15 cents

Patterns will be mailed to readers of this paper on receipt of price Be sure to state right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust Address Pattern Department.

"Jack" Taylor, carrying 175 pounds of hard muscle and running his first distance race, was one of the features of the afternoon. Taylor plugged along from the crack of the starter's gun and his remarkable endurance stood him in good stead. In a desperate effort to nose out Robert Finn and win one of the major prizes, Taylor overtaxed his energy and was exhausted at the finish.

[illegible] in First Race.

Dr. Alex. [illegible], a practicing dentist in Colorado Springs ran the [illegible] race of his life and finished in eighth place, laughing as he crossed the tape. His performance was the more unusual because he had never taken part in a race before but had given all his time to boxing.

Theodore Goode of Manitou, gave an exhibition of reserve strength that thrilled the five thousand people who watched the finish along "The Trail." Running several yards behind Thomas Smith, of Denver, Goode started to sprint about 100 yards from the tape and crossed the line at almost a 10-second clip, after grinding out more than 16 miles of hard road work.

Altitude Slows Up Easterner.

Louis Stock of Baltimore, who finished sixty-seventh in the great Marathon race in New York city conducted by the Evening Mail, failed to show any remarkable prowess, owing largely to the altitude, to which he is not yet accustomed for long distance work. Stock finished ninth and was almost exhausted.

Felix Maluf, the "racing fireman" and a native of Syria, ran a strong race and broke through the Shan Kive colors used as a tape—just 50 seconds within the time limit, thus winning a silver medal as a survivor.

Eighteen runners started and only six fell by the wayside. The first three will receive the Racycle bicycles presented by the Shan Kive committee and the other nine will receive silver medals of the Amateur Athletic union. The race was run under the sanction of the A. A. U. and the records will be taken by that great amateur athletic organization.

Striking out 11 men, Comstock pitched Detroit to victory in the second contest. He allowed only tow hits until the sixth. In the first game a foul from Walker's bat in the fourth inning split one of Stanage's fingers, and McKee replaced him.

ZOOZ WIN STATE TITLE, DEFEATING STRONG K. C.

Best Ball Game in Years on Local Grounds; Fusick Pitched Marvelous Ball

Hitting the ball when hits were needed and fielding like demons behind Pitcher Fusick, who held his opponents safe at all stages, the Zooz yesterday afternoon took the second straight game from the Denver Knights of Columbus and thereby won the odd game of the five played by the two teams this season. This victory gives Colorado Springs the best claim of any team in Colorado to the state championship as the Knights are leaders in the Denver championship series and the locals have beaten practically everyone of the best teams, both inside of Denver and out.

Twirlers' Battle.

Yesterday's game furnished the fastest and most thrilling baseball of the season, with Fusick and Chuck Nichols engaging in a pitcher's battle. The local man, although he threw four hard innings Sunday, worked the whole game and would have scored a shutout had it not been for a couple of misplays in the sixth. Nichols was hit hard by the locals when hits were needed although a [illegible] at critical moments helped [illegible].

The Zooz started the fireworks in the second when Fusick opened with a double. Fowler was hit and Dixon advanced them with a single, filling the bases. Seger then waited out four wide ones, forcing in a run. Morris got first on a fielder's choice and Gall scored Fowler with a sacrifice fly to left center which Reed bagged after a hard run.

Tied Up in Fifth.

The locals tied up the game in the fifth when Hastings opened by hitting the first ball pitched into deep right for three sacks, scoring on Counts' sacrifice fly. Fusick grounded out to short and then Fowler, Dixon, Seger, Morris and Gall all singled, scoring four runs. In the next inning singles by Hastings and Counts, and Fusick's clever bunt scored one. Schneider, running for Hastings, scoring from second on the play by daring base running. A beautiful throw by Murphy from deep left nipped Counts at the plate after Fowler had flied out.

The Knights did all their scoring in the sixth when with one out Reed and Murphy singled and the bases were filled when Darley hit a grounder, or Fusick and Counts in taking the throw at third to force out Reed stepped off the bag in attempting to make a quick double to first. Schneider struck out, but singles by Astler and Dunn scored three. For the rest of the game Fusick retired the visitors in one, two, three order, aided by some fast fielding.

The game abounded from start to finish in [illegible] fielding plays in which the infield of both teams figured. Fowler, Ryan, Schneider and Schweiger [illegible] making some difficult catches, while Counts and Morris handled some particularly hard chances.

The first game of the afternoon between the Painters and the Plumbers of the Union Labor league furnished some fast and exciting ball, with the result in doubt until the last man was out. There was hard hitting on both sides but sharp fielding kept the score down, the Painters taking the seven inning contest by the close score of 5 to 3, which gives them the lead for second place in the league.

The box score of the Zooz-Knights game follows:

Wolgast Beaten by New Fugilist Star

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 1.—Joe Azevedo fought his way to a decision over Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, today in their 10-round bout here. The going was fast and the younger fighter clearly earned the verdict. In the seventh round Azevedo knocked Wolgast down. Wolgast fought almost entirely with his left hand, his right apparently being in no condition to inflict punishment.

The Sacramento lightweight was afflicted by stage fright in the opening round but this wore off and in the second round he took the aggressive, forcing the fighting.

In the seventh round Azevedo floored Wolgast with a left swing to the neck. Wolgast was up in a second and clinched. He tried to rough it in the clinch, and the crowd hooted while Referee Griffin admonished him to be careful.

Splendid Success Attends Young Thespians' Efforts

The matinee and night performances of "Much Ado," the second of the fetes which have been given at the Grand Opera house for the benefit of the Children's ward maintained out at Beth-El hospital by the Visiting Nurses' association, yesterday drew each its full quota of patronage in spite of several rival attractions elsewhere.

Even prettier than "The Little Princess," "Much Ado" swung smoothly through its revel and riot of dances, songs and witty dialogue, with applause greeting each number from start to finish. The scenes of "Much Ado" are laid in a beautiful garden where Titania's little sprites and fairies are enjoying their moonlight revels. A strange unnatural object is discovered in the sky, approaching earth. Titania stops the mirth and all await its coming.

There is a hush of expectancy, a rustle and a whirr, and then the beautiful aeroplane, outlined in tiny electric lights, apparently shoots from the sky right into the midst of Titania's garden. It carries the Men from Mars, dressed as aborigines in handsome skins of wild animals.

Their entrance to the stirring "El Capitan," their gallant captain with "a scroll of every man's name" as he called the roll, and finally the winning of his fair Titania, ere he returns to Mars,—all the scenes were admirably acted. The final scene was a thing of beauty, truly a picture from out of Fairyland. The fair Titania, poised in the aeroplane directly over the heads of the bevy of beautiful Earth Maidens —all singing, their rose-trimmed gowns swaying to the rythm of "Good-bye Everybody," the Men from Mars with drawn swords at attention—all formed a tableaux of wondrous dramatic appeal.

Miss Arnold received fresh tributes as Titania, her sprightliness and utter abandon to the lightness and airiness of the party being thoroughly delightful. If possible, she appeared more beautiful, more charmingly graceful and at ease, than before. Miss Marguerite Couture, the bright particular star of the many beautiful dancers, received a tremendous ovation and responded with a winning manner and charming grace. Dancing is assuredly her forte and she gives promise of a brilliant future.

In a very pretty song little Miss Fanchion Croy showed admirable poise for one so young. She is pretty and very graceful, dainty and possessed of a remarkably sweet, clear voice. The "Humoreske," as on Saturday, was one of the most captivating numbers of the entire performance. It was most cleverly done by the Misses Helen Hoon and Bernice Hosman and Messrs. Donald Graham and Meldon Johnson. The young girls were as pretty as pictures in their fluffy ballet costumes, and their evident joy in the dance added not a little to its attractiveness.

Little Miss Leslie Davis, understudy for Miss Eunice Caseley, in the role of Ariel, compelled to take the part because of the illness of the real Ariel, was from the first a favorite with the audience, with Master Richard Roby, a talented mite of a boy who is as much at home on the stage as playing in his own yard, a close second in the race for favor. The darling of the company, tiny baby Dorothy Brassfield, was the delight of the audience and all unconscious kept them laughing constantly at the cunning naivette of her earnest efforts.

A Splendid Success.

Nothing but pleasure and happiness was evident on the faces of the little participants. In fact they really seemed to be really out in a lovely wood enjoying a holiday frolic. To Miss Bogardus, their director, they gave a ringing cheer after the fall of the final curtain last night, and many of the exquisite flowers, sent up over the footlights in profusion bore her name. One tiny little player voiced the sentiment of the whole gay young company when she exclaimed, "Let's have a fete every day—I don't want it to be all over."

In gratifying addition to the wonderful artistic success of the fetes is the box office statement that the receipts give promise of nearing $1,000, a splendid showing for a late summer attraction in Colorado Springs. And when one considers the beneficiary of the fetes, one is doubly glad that they were so successful financially.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

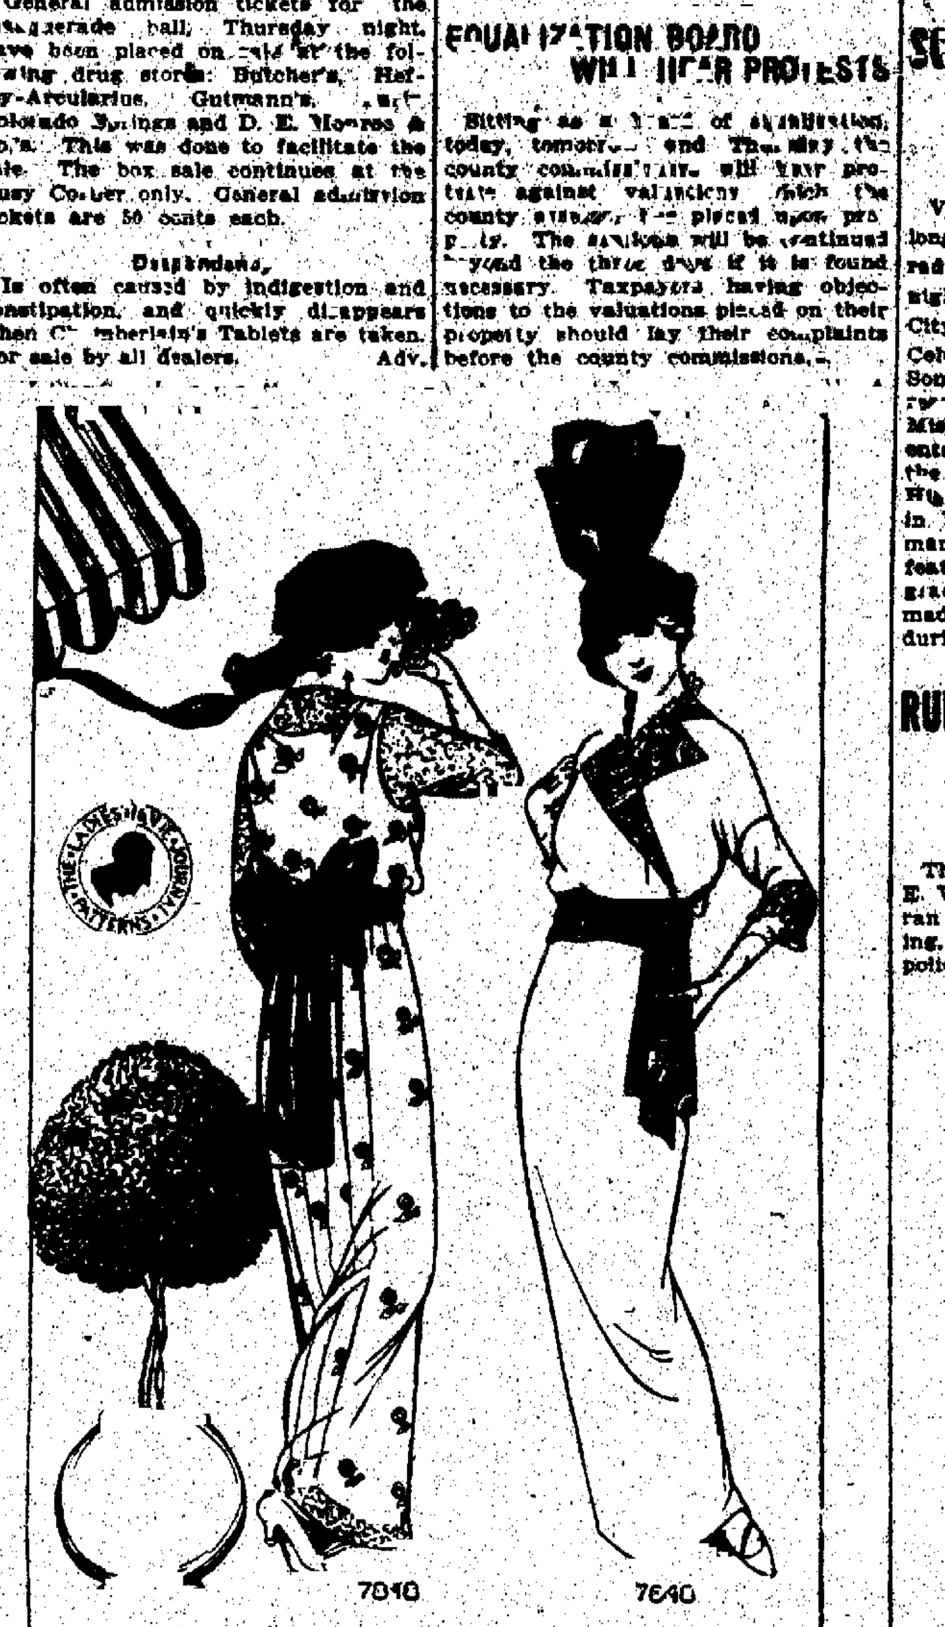
A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Adv.

Look Out For Poison Ivy

Strolling through the woods or clearing brush, picnickers, hunters, fishermen—look out for poison ivy. And in the meantime keep your blood pure by using S. S. S. If your skin is rough with eczema, pimples or any other eruption, S. S. S. stimulates the fine network of blood vessels in the skin to dry up and heal all sore spots.

S. S. S. will do this positively. It dominates the principle of osmosis, stimulates the cells of the skin to select their own nutriment from the blood, made pure and healing by the wonderful medicinal ingredients of this famous blood purifier. It is a safe remedy, as it contains no minerals, and yet its action is a marvel.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 186 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.



THE LARGE ARMHOLE, AND DROP-SHOULDER LINE TO BE PAVING THE WAY FOR THE RETURN OF THE KIMONO SLEEVE

Lower and lower drops the shoulder line of the new frocks and blouses perhaps because most women have always cherished a liking for the kimono type of sleeve, and are getting just as close to it as possible. Many elaborate evening gowns of the past season were frankly kimono as to sleeves but the idea was not worked into the practical frocks to any extent. The drop-shoulder as in 7648 was adopted as a sort of compromise. In this dress it gives quite a pretty shoulder line and the sleeve may be joined with a plain seam or under a tuck as preferred. The closing is at the side-front of the waist, carried over to the side of the skirt. The tiny square collar and revers should be of some contrasting material, and the shops are full of suggestions for this. It has surely been a season of contrasts, some good, some atrocious, but now that we are becoming accustomed to handling these contrasts, the mistakes are rarer, and not so glaring. The frock we are discussing is a good model for all-day wear, in white, or tomato red linen or ratine, with trimming of some post-impressionist printed stuff in dull colors. Five sizes, 34 to 42, and the 36-inch size requires five yards 36-inch material; 15 cents.

Slowly but surely plaits are coming to the front in the best models. To be sure, they are always worked out in the softest of fabrics, so that they give very little extra fullness, as in the original of 7948, which was of sheer voile of chiffony softness.

The frock was in the new overblouse effect that seems to be gaining in favor, and the overblouse is made with quite a large armhole, emphasizing the looseness of present-day blouses. There is a guimpe in peasant shaping that fastens at the back, and for this some of the dainty lace nets or point d'esprit may be used. To the overblouse the tunic with group of plaits front and back is joined, and the pattern provides a foundation skirt, so that if you decide to make over blouse and tunic of some transparent fabric, you have a foundation dress to develop in satin that forms a lining. The girdle is very pretty with its large butterfly bow at the back. No pattern is given for this. Three sizes, for misses of 16, 17 and 18 and 18-year girl will need four yards 36-inch material for foundation dress, and four yards 42-inch for over blouse and tunic; 15 cents.

Patterns will be mailed to readers of this paper on receipt of price. Be sure to state right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department.

Coal Men Announce Increase in Prices

A coal rate war which has been in progress for more than a year, has been ended, and yesterday local dealers advanced prices on all classes of coal. Signs already are appearing in the coal offices stating the advance. The increase in prices, it was said last night, has been expected for some time by those familiar with fuel conditions here.

Lignite mine run for blocks and steam use has been advanced to $2.50 a ton. Lignite lump for domestic use has gone to $4 a ton, and bituminous nut has gone to $5.50 and lump to $6.

It is a well established fact, it was said last night, that a great deal of money has been lost by producers and dealers alike, since the rate war went into effect. One producer said:

"Colorado Springs is fortunate in having at its door large coal deposits which would mean a great industry for this locality if they were developed, but it was unfortunate in having had this rate war. The war has already resulted in closing some of the mines, throwing many men out of employment, and driving many of the dealers out of the coal business."

Peak Light Will Play on Dancers

Dancing by the light of the giant searchlight on Pikes Peak will be one of the innovations at the big Shan Kive mask ball Thursday night. Manager C. W. Sells of the Cog road has made arrangements to turn the big light upon the dancers and the city lights will be turned out while the searchlight is playing.

The big light is a powerful one and will cast its rays for a distance of 13 miles upon the merry groups of masked dancers making a fantastic picture. Four blocks of the street lights will be turned out while the Peak search light is going.

"Jack" Taylor, carrying 175 pounds of hard muscle and running his first distance race, was one of the features of the afternoon. Taylor plugged along from the crack of the starter's gun and his remarkable endurance stood him in good stead. In a desperate effort to nose out Robert Finn and win one of the major prizes, Taylor overtaxed his energy and was exhausted at the finish.

[illegible] in First Race.

Dr. [illegible], a practicing dentist in Colorado Springs ran the first race of his life and finished in eighth place, laughing as he crossed the tape. His performance was the more unusual because he had never taken part in a race before but had given all his time to boxing.

Theodore Goode of Manitou gave an exhibition of reserve strength that thrilled the five thousand people who watched the finish along "The Trail." Running several yards behind Thomas Smith, of Denver, Goode started to sprint about 100 yards from the tape and crossed the line at almost a 10-second clip, after grinding out more than 10 miles of hard road work.

Altitude Slows Up Easterner.

Louis Stock of Baltimore, who finished sixty-seventh in the great Marathon race in New York city conducted by the Evening Mail, failed to show any remarkable prowess, owing largely to the altitude, to which he is not yet accustomed for long distance work. Stock finished ninth and was almost exhausted.

Felix Maluf, the "racing fireman" and a native of Syria, ran a strong race and broke through the Shan Kive colors—used as a tape just 50 seconds within the time limit, thus winning a silver medal as a survivor.

Eighteen runners started and only six fell by the wayside. The first three will receive the Racycle bicycles presented by the Shan Kive committee and the other nine will receive silver medals of the Amateur Athletic union. The race was run under the sanction of the A. A. U. and the records will be taken by that great amateur athletic organization.

ZOOZ WIN STATE TITLE, DEFEATING STRONG K. C.

Best Ball Game in Years on Local Grounds; Fusick Pitched Marvelous Ball

Hitting the ball when hits were needed and fielding [illegible] behind Pitcher Fusick, who held his opponents safe at all stages, the Zoos yesterday afternoon took the second straight game from the Denver Knights of Columbus and thereby won the odd game of the five played by the two teams this season. This victory gives Colorado Springs the best claim of any team in Colorado to the state championship, as the Knights are leaders in the Denver championship series and the locals have beaten practically everyone of the best teams both inside of Denver and out.

Twirlers Battle.

Yesterday's game furnished the fastest and most thrilling baseball of the season, with Fusick and Chuck Nichols engaging in a pitcher's battle. The local man although he threw four hard innings Sunday worked the whole game and would have scored a shutout had it not been for a couple of misplays in the sixth. Nichols was hit hard by the locals when hits were needed although a couple of [illegible] at critical moments helped [illegible].

The Zooz started the [illegible] in the second when Fusick opened with a double. Fowler was hit and Dixon advanced them with a single, filling the bases. Seger then waited out four wide ones, forcing in a run. Morris got first on a fielder's choice and Gail scored Fowler with a sacrifice fly to left center which Reed bagged after a hard run.

Tied Up in Fifth.

The locals tied up the game in the fifth when Hastings opened by hitting the first ball pitched into deep right for three sacks, scoring on Counts' sacrifice fly. Fusick grounded out to short and then Fowler, Dixon, Seger, Morris and Gail all singled, scoring four runs. In the next inning singles by Hastings and Counts and Fusick's clever bunt scored one, Schneider running for Hastings scoring from second on the play by daring base running. A beautiful throw by Murphy from deep left nipped Counts at the plate after Fowler had flied out.

The Knights did all their scoring in the sixth when with one out Reed and Murphy singled, and the bases were filled when Darley hit a grounder to Fusick and Counts in taking the throw at third to force out Reed stepped off the bag in attempting to make a quick double to first. Schneider struck out, but singles by Autler and Dunn scored three. For the rest of the game Fusick retired the visitors in one, two, three order, aided by some fast fielding.

The game abounded from start to finish in many fielding plays in [illegible] the infield of both teams figured. [illegible] Ryan, Schneider and Schweiger making some [illegible] catches [illegible] Counts and Morris handled some particularly hard chances.

The first game of the afternoon between the Painters and the Plumbers of the Union Labor league furnished some fast and exciting ball, with the result a toss until the last man was out. There was hard hitting on both sides but sharp fielding kept the score down, the Painters taking the seven inning contest by the close score of 5 to 3, which gives them the lead for second place in the league.

Wolgast Beaten by New Pugilist Star

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 1.—Joe Azevedo fought his way to a decision over Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, today in their 10-round bout here. The going was fast and the younger fighter clearly earned the verdict. In the seventh round Azevedo knocked Wolgast down. Wolgast fought almost entirely with his left hand, his right apparently being in no condition to inflict punishment.

The Sacramento lightweight was affected by stage fright in the opening round but this wore off and in the second round he took the aggressive, forcing the fighting.

In the seventh round Azevedo floored Wolgast with a left swing to the neck. Wolgast was up in a second and clinched. He tried to rough it in the clinch, and the crowd hooted while Referee Griffin admonished him to be careful.

SPECTACULAR MARATHON

ever run in the Pikes Peak region and proved a distinct novelty. So successful was the event that it is likely to be a yearly occurrence hereafter. People cheered the runners from every vantage point, loaded street cars whirled past the men and the passengers shouted encouragement, the hill tops and rocks in the Garden of the Gods were covered with interested spectators and the shouts of thousands gave proof that the race was the most successful athletic event ever conducted in Colorado Springs.

An immense crowd gathered at Adams crossing to witness the start. Great difficulty was experienced in clearing the street for the runners and at 3 27 o'clock Mayor McKesson fired his best revolver and they started. Stock took the lead and Lee Dowd of the State Agricultural college followed a close second. Dowd suffered with a cramp during the first mile and this slowed him up for seven miles. Hall and Taylor, the two Colorado college men outdistanced the majority of the runners in the first mile and trotted along contentedly in third and fourth place until Hall spurted as the Bijou street viaduct was crossed.

Wettingel Goes Into Lead.

Wettingel jumped largely into the lead with his jerky stride as the runners trotted across Pikes Peak avenue to Nevada and plugged along consistently. Now and then the runners would use a sponge or a lemon and as they neared the long climb up the mesa hill but none slowed up. Hall had dropped [illegible] yards behind Wettingel but had the third man equally as far outdistanced.

[illegible] was terrific and the dust and smoke choked the runners. As they neared the descent they cut across the mountain and through brush that scratched their legs and over stones that tripped them. The runners plunged down the mountain almost a sheer cliff. With the gateway rocks looming ahead the doughty runners pushed ahead and finally emerged into the Garden of the Gods, the first Marathoners since the Indian scouts used to sneak along behind the rocks to carry messages or regain their camps.

Wettingel was running strong and although the last 300 yards was in deep sand, he plugged forward gamely and crossed the line with his trainer, Burkett, tired but not exhausted.

Hall Falls Unconscious.

Hall followed him and with tense drawn face fell across the line into arms of friends. He recovered consciousness and was none the worse for his race last night.

The crowd remained to cheer until the last runner had finished and hung along the course until Maluf the Springs fireman who was twelfth and last, crossed the line.

LEACH CROSS FOUGHT TO A FINISH BY BARRIEAU

Newcomer Jabs New York Dentist at Will and Almost Scores K. O. Should Have Decision

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 1.—Leach Cross, the New York dentist lightweight, and F. Barrieau fought a terrific 12-round draw here this afternoon.

It had been agreed at the suggestion of Cross that the bout be declared a draw if both men were on their feet at the finish, and this saved the New Yorker from an adverse decision as Barrieau outpointed him in eight of the 12 rounds. In three rounds Cross had a slight advantage. At the end of the bout Cross was bleeding from the mouth and was badly marked around his left eye and on the jaw where Barrieau had landed heavy blows.

Cross at the start tried to take everything Barrieau offered while waiting for an opportunity to land a knockout. Twice in the first round Barrieau caught the New Yorker off balance and sent him sprawling. Both times Cross came up fighting groggily. In the next three rounds Barrieau time and again beat the New Yorker to the punch, while Cross occasionally lashed out with a vicious right swing that never landed.

In the sixth Barrieau was sent to his knees by a glancing blow on the head but was up in an instant.

The last two rounds developed a great slugging match. Cross tried in vain to land a knockout. Barrieau was [illegible] and found the New Yorker often enough to hold off the [illegible] who took most of the punishment. Both men were strong at the finish.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS

Colorado Springs People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills,

For Colorado Springs kidney sufferers

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Colorado Springs people.

A LASTING EFFECT.

On October 28, 1912, Mr. Carter said: "I have just as high an opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills now as I did when I endorsed them over a year ago. I haven't had much kidney complaint since."
